

These crowdsourced transcriptions were made by EMROC classes and transcribathons (emroc.hypotheses.org), Shakespeare's World volunteers, Folger docents, and paleography students. Original line endings, spelling, and punctuation are maintained and abbreviations are expanded, but the overall layout is not reproduced. Please contact emmo@folger.edu with transcription errors. Digitized images are available on LUNA and XML versions are available upon request. All transcriptions can be freely used and shared without restrictions, but please acknowledge "Folger Shakespeare Library" and the source manuscript's call number.

Last updated: 28 April 2020

X.d.751: Receipt for scurvy grass ale [manuscript], ca. 18th century.

recto

The roots of the sharp poynted dock six ounces
The roots of fennel Asparagus and horse radish of each two ounces
The midle bark of the ash and elder trie of each ane ounce and ane half scurvie grasse two handfulls water cresses brooklyme hynds tongue Germander and maiden hair of each ¶ane handfull
The tops of firre ane handfull verso