(1) To the Earls of Northumberland and Cumberland, to be ready with the Bishop of Durham and the Sheriffs and gentlemen of Northumberland and the Bishopric, to meet the Queen of Scots either in Berwick or at the bridge thereof and conduct her from thence to the Tees.

(2) To Lord Dacre and others, to attend on the Earls, to conduct the Queen of Scots either to Newcastle or to the Tees.

(3) To Earl of Rutland: As the meeting shall take place about next Bartholomew Tide, either in York or on the side near the River Trent, he, being President of the Council of the North, with the Archbishop of York and the nobility and gentry of Yorkshire, shall receive the Queen of Scots at the water of Tees, and conduct her to the place of meeting. He is required to put himself and them in good order by the beginning of August.

(4) To the Archbishop of York, to be ready to accompany the Earl of Rutland.

(5) The Barons of Yorkshire, to be ready to attend the Queen of Scots in August.

(6) Duke of Norfolk, 4 Earls, and Viscount Montague: They and their wives shall be ready with at least 24 persons for the interview with the Queen of Scots.

(7) Proclamation of the arrival of the Queen of Scots. As the meeting shall be at Nottingham Castle in the beginning of September next, the person addressed is to go to Nottingham before September 4 with his wife and train.

[State Papers Foreign].

Leicester preparations, 1562.

1562 July 5: Hall Book: 'Every one of the 24 called the Mayor's brethren shall pay and deliver to the Chamberlains 20s and every one of the 48 10s, to be paid on Friday next towards the repairing of the town against the Queen's Majesty's coming...Every Alderman within his own Ward shall bring in the names of every one of the commonalty dwelling within his said Ward able to be taxed on Wednesday next, to be taxed and assessed by Mr Mayor and other Justices, every one to be taxed and assessed according to his ability and by their discretion'...

'Every one shall see the pavement paved before his door and compass of his house immediately'. [Mary Bateson, ed. Records of the Borough of Leicester, 3 vols. (Cambridge, 1899-1905), iii.101].

Nottingham preparations, 1562.

1562 July 4, Greenwich: Privy Council: 'A letter to the Sheriff of Nottingham that where the Queen's Majesty hath determined to meet the Queen of Scots at Nottingham the 3rd of September next, both whose trains will amount to 4000 persons, like as her Majesty hath already given order for the furnishing with sufficient victuals her own court, so is he required to repair forthwith to Nottingham, and there calling unto him as well the most expert and skilful gentlemen of that shire as of the confines of the shires adjoining, and to consider with them what store of victuals, especially of bread corn and drink corn, may be put in a readiness in those parts for the furnishing of the train, and to make a particular note thereof and to send the same hither with speed, wherein the more speed is required for that if they shall not be there able to furnish the train, some order may be taken in time that the same may be appointed out of some other more remote parts'.

July 14, Westminster: Privy Council: 'Letters to the lords and others that were formerly warned to attend upon the Queen's Majesty to Nottingham, signifying unto them that her Highness hath altered this journey for this summer'. [Acts of the Privy Council].

York preparations, 1562.

June 18, York, Earl of Rutland to Sir William Cecil: Mr Controller [Sir Edward Rogers, Controller of the Household] wrote to know what preparation might be made here of certain things, and at what prices. Whereupon I caused the Mayor and Aldermen to declare the same in notes; a copy is herewith.

Certificate by Mayor and Aldermen of York of what provision may be had upon 20 days' warning to serve the Queen's household for 20 days:

100 dozen of bread per day, at £1.1s.4d the quarter of wheat.

7 tuns of ale and beer, by the day; ale at 4 marks and beer at £2 the tun.

30 tuns of Gascon and French wines: there is none in the city fit for the service. 4 butts of sack, £4 the butt. Hops: £1.8s the 100.

12 load of tall wood and 1000 faggots per day, to be had and delivered at the waterside for £3.6s8d the 1000. 100 quarters of charcoal per day: none to be had in the city. 50 tuns of empty casks per day: 5s8d per tun.

June 19, Earl of Rutland to Cecil: I have according to request viewed the best houses here, and found the merchants' houses not meet for either of the Queens, nor could they be made so, as they differed in height and are not together, but they may serve for the train. The Palace is not meet for them, as it has been so defaced that only one large chamber remains. The Prebendaries' houses about the Minster are the meetest to serve the purpose required.

'Devices to be shown before the Queen's Majesty, by way of masqueing, at Nottingham Castle after the meeting of the Queen of Scots'.

First night: A prison called Extreme Oblivion to be made in the hall, its Keeper being Argus (Circumspection). A masque of ladies: Pallas riding on a unicorn, Prudentia on a golden lion, Temperantia on a red lion, six or eight ladies masquers bringing in Discord and False Report as captives.

Pallas to make a speech in verse before the captives are locked everlastingly in the prison. 'Then the trumpets to blow, and the English ladies to take the nobility of the strangers and dance'.

Second night: A castle called the Court of Plenty to be made in the hall. Peace to enter on a chariot drawn by an elephant, ridden by Friendship, followed by six or eight ladies masquers. Peace comes to dwell for ever with Prudentia, Temperantia, and the castle's two porters, Ardent Desire and Perpetuity.

Friendship to make a speech in verse.

'Then shall spring out of the Court of Plenty conduits of all sorts of wines, during which time the English lords shall mask with the Scottish ladies'.

Third night: Disdain to enter on a wild boar, with Prepensd Malice as a serpent. 'These two shall draw an orchard having golden apples, in which orchard shall sit six or eight ladies masquers'. Disdain is sent by Pluto to order that Discord and False Report, or Peace, shall be delivered up. Discretion to enter, leading a horse ridden by Valiant Courage (Hercules). 'After him six or eight lords masquers'. Discretion is sent by Jupiter 'to demand of Prudentia how long...Peace shall dwell between her and Temperantia'. Prudentia is to lower to Discretion 'a grandguard of azure' inscribed 'Ever'; Temperantia is to lower 'a girdle of azure, studded with gold, and a sword of steel, whereupon shall be written Never'. Discretion is to lay the grandguard and sword at the feet of the Queens, and then to arm Valiant Courage with them for a fight in which Disdain is to escape, Malice is to be slain. 'After this shall come out of the garden the six or eight ladies masquers with a song...as full of harmony as may be devised'.

Dated May 1562; printed in full, Malone Society Collections, i. part 2 (1908), 143-148. On May 10 there was a warrant for delivery of silks for masques and revels to the Master of the Revels. [Revels, 114].

'Remembrance'.

'First that carriages be appointed for all nobility and all officers for the Queen's Majesty and her house.

(2) That no herdward man, shoemaker, nor artificer have any cart allowed but their carriage with horses.

(3) That there may be letters to the Sheriff of Oxfordshire and Warwick for levying in every shire 300 quarters of wheat, in all 600 quarters, beside the Privy Bake-house, or else to know how they are able to serve with baked bread by the day to the said houses.

(4) That letters be directed to the Commissioners of the Peace of both the shires or to other gentlemen to know how the Queen's Majesty may be served of beefs, muttons, veals, and lambs.

(5) For heronshaws, shovellers, bitterns, or any kind of fowl or fresh water fish, rabbits, etc. and what may be served by the day at the houses of Woodstock, Coventry, Warwick, and Killingworth [Kenilworth], and prices set for the same for the time of her Grace's abode there, and by whom the said things may be [served].

(6) That Oxford and Coventry brewings may serve for Woodstock, Warwick, and Killingworth, and also bought bread if need be.

(7) A staple [purchasing monopoly] to be made for the Poulterers for the mouth at Oxford and Coventry for the standing houses.

(8) For salt store to be laid at [blank].

(9) For wood of sorts to be had of the Queen's own about her Grace's standing houses and to be laid in, and also rushes of the country.

(10) That coals [charcoal] be made out of such woods and laid in beforehand.

(11) That order be given by the Sheriff of the Shire at the said standing houses by letters for laying in of hay, litter, oats, horses' bread, and such like.

(12) Wines of all sorts to come from London and laid in places appointed for the journeys by the Jestes [itinerary].

(13) If the ale of the country will not please the Queen's Majesty then it must come from London, or else a brewer to brew the same in the towns near to the places appointed.

(14) That ale and beer be brewed at Oxford and to serve within 20 miles of the same town'.

[Route 1] Windsor; Chenies (11 miles) [Bucks]; Rycote (12 miles) [Oxon]; Oxford (8 miles); Woodstock (7 miles); Banbury (10 miles) [Oxon]; Coventry (8 miles) [Warwicks]; Warwick (8 miles); Killingworth (5 miles).

[Route 2] Windsor; Bisham (7 miles) [Berks]; Ewelme (11 miles) [Oxon]; Bicester [Oxon] or Buckingham (10 miles); Banbury (10 miles); Coventry (8 miles); Warwick (8 miles); Killingworth (5 miles).

[Route 3] Windsor; Missenden (12 miles) [Bucks]; Aylesbury (6 miles); Buckingham (12 miles); Daventry (16 miles) [Northants]; Coventry (14 miles); Warwick (8 miles); Killingworth (5 miles).

[The only year in the reign when Easter Day fell on April 2 was 1564].

'Remembrance', routes, letter, and Italian proposal for fireworks:
at Magdalene College, Cambridge: Pepys MSS, vol II. f.517,607,609.

'Remembrance' and routes first printed in HMC Pepys (1911), 178-179, (assigning the progress to 1575), with an undated and unaddressed letter from Henry Killigrew to introduce an Italian maker of fireworks, and a detailed proposal in Italian for three nights of fireworks for the Queen.

R.J.P.Kuin, ed. Robert Langham. A Letter (Leiden, 1983), prints the letter and fireworks proposal (in translation and in Italian), assigning all to 1575.

C.E.McGee in 'Fireworks for Queen Elizabeth' suggests 1564 as the date. (Malone Society Collections xv (1993) 199-203).

The letter can be dated Spring 1564 (when the Queen was at Windsor), by a reference to Henry Killigrew intending 'to go over myself this journey' with Lord Hunsdon. Killigrew accompanied Lord Hunsdon on a special embassy to France in 1564, the only such journey abroad which they undertook together.

The fireworks were to be near a river, which would point to the intended location as Warwick Castle (owned by Lord Robert Dudley's brother the Earl of Warwick), rather than Kenilworth Castle.

The Queen visited Cambridge in 1564.

Her first visit to Kenilworth was in 1566; she watched fireworks at Warwick Castle in 1572.

1568: Proposed progress to Northamptonshire.

Sept 10, Fri: Windsor (7 miles)
Sept 17, Fri: Hampton Court and there at her Majesty's pleasure.

The 1568 progress started as planned, except that the Queen stayed longer at Enfield and Hatfield. The places not known to have been visited in 1568 were: Bisham; Boarstall; Putteridge; Twyford; Tyringham; Woburn.

Itinerary, and mileage: included with the French Ambassador's dispatches, and headed 'Voyage de la Reine'. PRO 31/3/26, f.236-7; at TNA, Kew.

1569: Proposed progress to Bristol.

At Bristol payment was made to two men for 'pitching from Newgate door... until you come to a tailor's shop on this side the watering place which is 240 yards in length and 7 yards in breadth one with another which is 1680 yards at 1½d the yard done at the commandment of Mr Mayor for that the Queen's Majesty was looked for when the work began, £10.10s'.

[Bristol Audit Book, Sept 1569-Sept 1570; payment c.Aug 1570].

This proposed visit to Bristol is not mentioned elsewhere.

1572: Proposed progress from Kenilworth Castle to Windsor.

'The Queen's Majesty's Gestes'

From Kenilworth

Aug 23, Sat: dinner, Sir Thomas Lucy [Charlecote, Warwicks]

Sept 17, Wed: Reading [Berks]

Sept 24, Wed: Windsor and there during the Queen's Majesty's pleasure.

The progress went as planned from Kenilworth Castle to Woodstock Palace, where the Queen had intended to stay for 11 days. On August 29 news of the Massacre of St Bartholomew reached the court from France; the Queen changed her plans for September. The places not visited in 1572 were:

Aldermaston; Englefield; Newbury; Wallingford; Yattendon.

Itinerary: Longleat House, Dudley Papers, III, f.57.

1572: Proposed progress to Wiltshire.

Letters from Henry Herbert 2nd Earl of Pembroke to his cousin Edward Stradling, of St Donat's, Glamorgan, Wales.

1572, Aug 9, Earl of Pembroke to Edward Stradling:

'Good cousin Stradling, for as much as the Queen's Majesty intendeth to be at my house at Ramsbury, the 9th of September next, at which time I am desirous to have the company of my friends and kinsmen there; wherefore, if you amongst other will take so much pains as to come and be merry with me then, after her Grace's departure thence we will hunt...In haste, at Downton [Wilts]'

Oct 6, Earl of Pembroke to Edward Stradling, at St Donat's:

'Cousin Stradling...Where I did by my letters request you to take the pains to have come to Ramsbury when the Queen's Majesty thought to have made her progress thither; and afterward receiving other advertisement of her alteration, and perceiving your good readiness of coming thither, I willed mine officers to advertise you of her Grace's alteration. with thanks for your gentle readiness, which I do thankfully accept; I do perceive that, either by negligence or haste, mine officers did not so perfectly advertise you hereof as my meaning was they should...Wilton, in haste'. [Stradling Correspondence, ed. J.M.Traherne (1840), 63-65].

The route of the 1572 progress was changed.

The Queen visited the Earl of Pembroke at Ramsbury only in August 1592.

1573: Proposed progress in Surrey, Kent, Sussex: first itinerary.

In the which progress her Majesty made knights: Sir Thomas Guildford, Sir Thomas Walsingham, Sir Alexander Culpeper, at Rye in Sussex. Sir Richard Baker, Sir Thomas Vane, at Dover. Sir Thomas Hales, at Cobham Hall. Mr Thomas Wotton, by his great labour and earnest suit, was not made knight'.

*This itinerary of overnight stays needs the following emendations:
The Queen stayed overnight at Sittingbourne and dined at Tunstall.
At Rochester she stayed at The Crown and for one night with Mr Watts.
She dined at Cobham Hall, but did not stay overnight.*

*Dering's list of those knighted is incomplete.
For his note of courtiers who stayed at his house see 20 August 1573.*

Itinerary: BL Lansdowne MS 19, no.92.

[1575] The progress started on May 23 at Stoke Newington. Of the places or persons named on the outward journey the Queen visited only: Hatfield, Herts; Mr Rotherham; Lord Cheney; Grafton; Sir Richard Knightley. After almost three weeks at Kenilworth the Queen went north to Staffordshire; her route homewards to Windsor was completely different from that envisaged.

Coventry Chamberlains' payments, 1575.

'To two of the Queen's Guard that came to survey for her Grace's progress, 6s8d; Queen's Clerk of the Market, 20s; Queen's Trumpeter, 40s; Queen's Footmen, 40s; Black Guard, 20s'.

Leicester preparations, 1575.

Leicester Hall Book. [April]: 'Provision in case the Queen's Majesty do come, for a stock of money and repairing the town'.

'For that it is supposed the Queen's Majesty is determined (God so willing) to come to the town of Leicester this summer, and for that the town doth not only lack a stock of money but also is in great decay, which is to be redressed, therefore it is ordered, condescended, concluded, and agreed in the manner and form following...First for a stock of money the Mayor and his Brethren to pay... 40s apiece and the 48 20s apiece...to the Chamberlain upon one fortnight's warning to be to them given, upon the coming of our said Sovereign Lady the Queen's Majesty'...

'The Mayor and all them that have been Mayors to wear and to meet her Majesty in scarlet gowns, and the rest of that company to wear black gowns, and every of them to be made of a new, decent and comely fashion'...

'The 48...to wear coats of fine black cloth, and to be guarded with velvet, and to meet her Majesty on horseback'...

'Every householder as well within the Town as the Liberties thereof do presently and forthwith repair, amend and beautify the forepart or forefront of all and every their houses, and also do amend or cause to be made and amended the pavements or causeways belonging to their houses, and this to be done at the commandment and sight of the Alderman of every Ward at the furthest within one fortnight after Whitsuntide next'. [Whit Sunday: May 22].

Leicester Chamberlains' Accounts, 1575:

'Gifts: Wine and sugar bestowed of two of the Queen's Majesty's pursuivants when they came to view the town and a place against her coming then supposed; the same in reward by the commandment of Mr Mayor and certain of his Brethren', 10s.

[Mary Bateson, ed. Records of Leicester, iii.158,160].

Nottingham Castle preparations, 1575.

In winter 1574 a panel of local gentry was commissioned to survey the Castle with the aid of workmen. They submitted a lengthy list of defects, with an estimate of over £900 for repairs. In February 1575 the Surveyor of the Queen's Works was instructed to lay out £200 on the Castle, and during the next four months spent almost £280 on repairs. [King's Works, iii.285].

The Works accounts have a long list of work done, and make reference to 'her Grace's lodgings'.

Pontefract Castle preparations, 1575.

There was a warrant to obtain furniture etc. 'which must needs be provided before our coming to the said Castle'. [King's Works, iii.289].

Shrewsbury preparations, 1575.

Shrewsbury Assembly Minute Book: July 18: 'They be agreed at this Assembly that there shall be given to Mr Churchyard the sum of five marks, for his pains taken in setting forth of Show against the Queen's Majesty's coming, being sent hither by my Lord President'.

Bailiffs' Accounts: 'Given to the Queen's Harbinger in gold and spent upon her Grace's servants resorting to this town at sundry times this year concerning her Grace's coming to this town, 47s10d. Given Mr Churchyard in reward being sent unto us by my Lord President with letters concerning the coming of the Queen's Majesty to this town...£3.6s8d'. [REED: Shrewsbury, 220].

Thomas Churchyard, who wrote entertainments for several of the Queen's progresses, was a native of Shrewsbury. Sir Henry Sidney was Lord President of Wales; Philip Sidney and his other sons were educated at Shrewsbury School.

Chronicle of Shrewsbury, 1575: 'This year the Queen's Majesty went a progress toward Shrewsbury, but because of death within a four miles of the same she came no further than Lichfield and from thence went to Worcester, the which city she liked well'. [Trans.Shropshire Arch.and Nat.Hist.Soc. (1880), iii.275].

York preparations, 1575.

1575, May 28: 'The Lord Mayor declared that two or three of the Queen's Majesty's servants and of her Guard had been with him at his house and required to have a Certificate from him and his Brethren to the right honourable Earl of Sussex, Lord Chamberlain, of the state and health of this City, suburbs and County of the same. Whereupon it was agreed that a Certificate should be made accordingly, and to be sealed with seal of Mayoralty. The tenor whereof hereafter followeth, word by word:

'Pleaseth it your honour to be advertised that we, Thomas Harrison, Mayor of the City of York, and the Aldermen of the same, Justices of Peace within the said City of York and County of the same, do certify your honour that the said City of York etc, is at this present in good safety, good state and health, and without any plague or other contagious sickness (praised be God) who long preserve your good Lordship in much honour with good health'.

'A copy of the Articles which the Queen's Majesty's said servants and Guards had to enquire upon:

(1) First you be to make your present repair with all diligence to every place underwritten and to make true enquiry of the Constables, parish priests, churchwardens and other officers of every town near to every of the said places, fit for lodging of her Highness's train, whether there be any infectious sickness at this present or hath been of late, and you shall bring with you true certificate thereof under the hands of the officers beforesaid.

(2) You shall in every county, where any of the said places be, repair to the Sheriff of the county and give charge to him to give order to all the aforesaid officers to make certificate to him from time to time, until her Majesty shall pass the places appointed for her lodgings, if any person happen to be sick or to die of any infectious disease after your departing from thence, which certificate he shall see safely to be sent to me with expedition, to the end her Majesty may have knowledge thereof in due time. To the end this may be better executed it shall not be amiss that the Sheriff do give charge to some Justices of Peace that shall dwell next to every of these places, to have care that the said officers do truly discharge their duties in their certificates'.

(3) 'You shall make a perfect book of the number of miles that every of the said places is distant from the other, as they be set in order, and what be the names of the corporate towns or market towns next adjoining fit to receive the train, and what corporate towns or market towns her Majesty shall ride through, from place to place, and at what places her Majesty shall enter every Shire.

(4) You shall view every of the said houses and shall lay down in writing what chambers there be fit for her Majesty's own lodging, and what other chambers fit to receive others that be to attend upon her Highness, that thereby the receipt of every house may be known.

(5) If you find any of the said houses to be over little or for any other respect unfit for her Majesty's lodging, you shall enquire what other houses be near to that house and shall take view of those houses, note the number of miles and do all other things appointed to be done at the houses undernamed, to the end it may appear where her Majesty may be best lodged, both in respect of the house and of the journey.

(6) In all places where her Majesty's journey shall be ten miles or upward you shall enquire of a convenient dining place by the way and note it in your book.

(7) If you find by your travail in this journey that for lack of good knowledge of the country her Majesty's journey may be either appointed out of a convenient course to bring her to principal places and houses where it is likely her Majesty will remain for any time, or that by some other ways her Majesty might be better conveyed and with better lodgings, to these principal places and houses; then you shall set down your opinions thereof in writing and shall take note of the houses, of the miles and of all other things before specified, and you shall take a note of all parks, forests and chases that be at the places where her Majesty shall lie or near to them by three miles.

(8) Finally you shall return with as much expedition as you possibly may and shall bring perfect declaration in writing of all the premises, that upon consideration thereof present direction may be taken as shall be best to her Highness's good liking and contentation'.

'Dated at Greenwich 13th May 1575. T.Sussex'.

Leicester preparations, 1576.

Hall Book. June 25: 'For that it is supposed of the Queen's Majesty's coming to Leicester this summer, and presently it is agreed for a stock of money...viz. the 24 40s apiece and the 48 20s...to be paid to the hands of the Chamberlains to the use of the town before the 8th July next, upon pain of doubling the sum demanded and not paid'.

['This not executed for that her Majesty came not as it was supposed'].

'What apparel the Mayor and his Brethren and the 48 shall wear'.

'The Mayor and they that have been Mayors to wear scarlet gowns, and the rest of the 24 to wear fine black gowns, and to meet her Majesty on horseback with footcloths...and every one of them to have their footman'...

'The Chamberlains and all they that have been Chamberlains to ride in coats of fine black cloth guarded with velvet, and the rest with biliment lace'.

Chamberlains' Accounts: 'Gifts: Two of the Queen's Majesty's servants that surveyed the town this summer against her Majesty's coming then supposed', 10s.

[Mary Bateson, ed. Records of Leicester, iii.165-166].

Nottingham preparations, 1576.

Nottingham Chamberlains' Accounts, 1576:

June 14: 'Unto the Queen's man that came from the court to survey the state of the town, 10s'.

June 16: 'Unto Mr Frear, the Queen's Majesty's man, 10s'.

[W.H.Stevenson, ed. Records of the Borough of Nottingham (Nottingham, 1882), iv.163].

Earl Soham
Eye [Suffolk] or Harleston, Mr Gawdy [Redenham, Norfolk]
Norwich
Ludham, the Bishop's house
Yarmouth
Wroxham, Mr Wodehouse
Paston, Mr William Paston
Baconsthorpe, Sir Christopher Heydon
Thornage, Sir William Butts
Walsingham, Mr Sydney [Little Walsingham]
Oxburgh, Sir Henry Bedingfield
Bradenham, Mr Hogan
Woodrising, Lord Paget
Kenninghall, Earl of Surrey

'The way homewards is yet thus appointed, as follows'
Bracon Ash, Mr Townsend [Norfolk]
Thetford [Norfolk]
St Edmunds Bury [Bury St Edmunds, Suffolk]
Lord North [Kirtling, Cambs]
Sir Giles Alington [Horseheath, Cambs]
Audley End, Lord Thomas Howard [Essex]
'Thence to Barkway, thence to Royston, or one of them' [Herts]

Tyttenhanger, Lady Paulet [Ridge, Herts]
Harrow on the Hill [Middlesex]
'Thence to a standing house, such as in the meantime her Majesty shall please to appoint'.

The Queen went no further than Norwich. Of the other places named she visited in 1578 only: Audley End; Bracon Ash; Bury St Edmunds; Havering; Horseheath; Kenninghall; Kirtling; Standon; Thetford; Woodrising.

*'Helmingham, Mr Spring': the Spring family were of Lavenham, Suffolk.
Helmingham: the seat of the Tollemache family;
William Bowles, who went to view: a Harbinger.*

Itinerary: Francis Blomefield, History of Norfolk, (1807), vi.178; from the original in the Bedingfield MSS at Oxburgh Hall, Norfolk.

1578: Proposed progress from Norfolk to Hampton Court.

'A brief show of the situation of the several houses named in her Majesty's Gestes with the number of miles between every of them'.

Thetford [Norfolk]
Hengrave [Suffolk]
Chippenham [Cambs]
Lord North's [Kirtling, Cambs]
Horseheath [Cambs]
Shelford [Great or Little Shelford, Cambs]
Cockness [Cokenach, Barkway, Herts]
Royston [Herts]
Hyde Hall [Sandon or Throcking, Herts]
Watton [Watton-at-Stone, Herts]
Hertford
Hatfield [Herts]
Harrow [Middx]
Hampton

The houses are not listed as above, but are marked on a diagram, with the mileage between each, varying from 4 miles to 12 miles.

With the diagram are also 'platforms' (floor-plans) of the lower and upper floors of two of the houses - Cockness and Royston - with captions giving brief descriptions of them.

There is a plan of Cockness house, alias Cokenach or Cockenhatch, near Barkway, Herts, occupied by Magdalene Lady Chester, widow of Sir Robert Chester, one of the Queen's Gentlemen Ushers, who died in 1574.

Cockness: 'The platform of the lower floor of Cockness house by Barkway. A very small house standing pleasantly in good air, having pleasant prospects, walks and fishing. The country round about it clear from all infectious diseases'.

'The platform of the second floor of Cockness the Lady Chester's house'.

The second plan: Royston Priory, Herts, occupied by Lady Chester's grandson Robert Chester (c.1565-1640).

Royston: 'The platform of the lower floor of Mr Chester's house at Royston. A very unnecessary house for receipt of her Majesty. It stands adjoining to the church on the south side thereof (not having any pleasant prospects any way). The country round about it healthy and clean'.

'The platform of the second floor of Royston house'.

The Queen visited neither house.

On her return journey from Norwich to Greenwich in 1578 she visited only the first five places shown on the diagram:

*Thetford; Hengrave; Chippenham; Kirtling; Horseheath.
The route was then completely changed because of plague.*

Diagram and floor-plans: SP12/125/46. Royston floor-plan is reproduced by Alfred Kingston, A History of Royston, Hertfordshire (1906), 75.

1578: Proposed progress from Suffolk to Bedfordshire.

1578, July 15, Havering, Lord Burghley to the Vice-Chancellor of Cambridge University: 'It is presently to be doubted, whether her Majesty will go any further into Suffolk than the Master of the Rolls, and if she do not, then it is likely she will change her progress, by returning by Cambridge, by Mr Hynde's, by Somersham, by Mr Cromwell's, and so by Justice Dyer, and the Lord St John's, and so return through Buckinghamshire towards Windsor. But...the intention is not settled'. [CUL: Letters Eliz I, 9, B.13 a].

People and places referred to by Lord Burghley:
Master of the Rolls: Sir William Cordell, Long Melford, Suffolk.
Mr Hynde: Francis Hynde, Madingley, Cambs.
Somersham, Hunts: Richard Cox, Bishop of Ely's palace.
Mr Cromwell: Sir Henry Cromwell, Hinchinbrooke, Huntingdon.
Justice Dyer: Sir James Dyer, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, of Great Staughton, Hunts.
Lord St John: Oliver, 1st Lord St John: Bletsoe, Bedfordshire.

The Queen stayed at Long Melford on her way to Norwich, but did not visit in 1578 any of the other places named by Lord Burghley.

Colchester preparations, 1578.

Colchester Assembly Book.

[1578] July 7: 'The Assembly of the Bailiffs and Aldermen and Common Council in the Council Chamber the 7th of July anno...20 for the receipt of her Majesty into the town'.

'It is agreed and ordered that the Bailiffs and Aldermen, in the receipt of her Majesty, shall ride upon comely geldings with foot-cloths, in damask or satin cassocks or coats, or else jackets of the same with satin sleeves, in their scarlet gowns, with caps and black velvet tippets'.

'The Council to attend upon the Bailiffs and Aldermen at the same time upon comely geldings with foot-cloths, in grogram or silk cassock coats or jackets, with silk doublets or sleeves at the least, in their livery moray gowns, with caps, every moray gown and gelding to be viewed and allowed by the Bailiffs and Aldermen and where fault is found by them the same to be amended within the time by them appointed, upon pain of every Alderman making default £10 and every Councillor £5'.

'There shall be appointed 40 of the best commoners of the town by the Bailiffs and Aldermen to attend the same time of the Bailiffs and Aldermen in such decent order as shall be thought good by the Bailiffs and Aldermen, upon pain of every one making default shall forfeit 40s'.

'Her Majesty shall be gratified from the town with a cup of silver double-gilt, of the value of 20 marks, or £10 at the least, with 40 angels in the same; and the Officers of her Majesty to be gratified as afore they have been.

The Recorder for the time being to make the oration to her Majesty'.

Great Yarmouth preparations, 1578.

Assemblies of the Mayor and Corporation.

Assembly, July 2: 'To have knowledge of the Queen's coming'.
'Richard Mayham is appointed to ride to Mr Grice with a letter to understand of her Majesty's coming to this town, and shall make provision there of two lasts of gunpowder...and also to cause Mr Grice to make a ship or a cup by his discretion, so it be under £16, for a present to her Majesty, and also to move Mr Grice to provide a fair ancient [ensign] for the town, and other flags for the town by his discretion, as he see the likelihood of her Majesty coming hither'. [William Grice, of Great Yarmouth and London, a Burgess; also Clerk of the Stables to the Queen].

July 18: 'To prepare the bridge for the Queen's carriage'.
Two men to 'be appointed to foresee that the bridge be made strong and able to bear her Majesty's carriage to and fro'.

'To entertain the Queen and how'.
'It is agreed that every one of the 24 wearing scarlet gowns shall await upon Mr Bailiffs in their scarlet gowns upon their horsebacks and their foot-cloths, to receive her Majesty at the entrance into our Liberties, and likewise that every of the 48 shall wait upon Mr Bailiffs and their brethren in a convenient and fair gown of broad black cloth to receive her Majesty, and none of the 24 or 48 now in the town to be absent at that time without leave of Mr Bailiffs, upon pain to be fined by the discretion of their honours'.

Aug 4: 'Every one of the 24 shall provide two buckram coats and every one of the 48 one coat of buckram, every of which coats to be made in convenient time before her Majesty's coming'. 'The Mount shall be repaired with all speed, and the Chamberlains shall cause flags to be graven with speed, in such place of the Common as by their discretions shall be thought meet, and shall have authority to take up carts to bring the same flags unto the Mount, and if any of the same carters be obstinate and shall refuse to carry the same flags, then the Chamberlains shall have authority to commit them to ward'.

Aug 11: 'Mr Felton shall take up a keel to make a barge for the Lords of the Council' and 'shall have authority to take up workmen to trim the same barge'.

Aug 15: 'About the Queen's coming'.
Five persons 'were appointed to go to Norwich with Mr Bailiffs to await upon them unto the Queen's Majesty and the Lords of the Council'.

[Assembly Book 1570-1579, f.199v-203].

Whilst the Queen was in Norwich, 16-22 August 1578, Lord Burghley and the Earl of Leicester visited Great Yarmouth.

A contemporary described Yarmouth's 'magnificency and sumptuous building... The very sight whereof caused...William Lord Burghley...and Robert Earl of Leicester in...1578 (at such time as Queen Elizabeth of happy memory came in progress to Norwich, and themselves, with many others of the nobles, came to Yarmouth, where they were most worthily entertained in martial manner, and at the Priory at the town's charges royally feasted, and in like manner by the principal merchants of Yarmouth attended), in my hearing highly to commend the stately uniform buildings then in it, which, since that time (praised be God) is more than redoubled'.

History of Great Yarmouth, ed. C.J.Palmer (Great Yarmouth, 1854), i.65, attributed to Henry Manship, Town Clerk 1579-1585; died 1625.

Now attributed to Thomas Damet, a Bailiff in 1578; completed by Manship in 1619. There is also a Latin description.

Ipswich preparations, 1578.

Assembly, June 26: 'Persons appointed to devise against the Queen's coming'. 'Forasmuch as it is supposed the Queen's Majesty is to come to this town at this her progress into Suffolk' seven men 'shall have authority to devise such orders and matters as shall be meet and necessary touching the receiving of her Majesty in this town'.

Sept 15: 'It is agreed that forasmuch as John King scrivener hath taken pains for the town about the setting forth of pageants as well at the Guild as against the Queen's coming, the said John King shall have given to him...by the town Treasurer 40s'. [Assembly Book, 1577-1587].

King's Lynn preparations, 1578.

Assembly, Aug 6: 'Mr Mayor, Aldermen and Common Council have condescended and agreed that, where the Queen's Majesty is now coming into the county of Norfolk in progress, that (to the intent to show their dutiful obedience and good wills), a present shall be given and presented to her Majesty of 100 angels if it shall so be thought meet and convenient by the Earl of Leicester, being High Steward of this town, and Mr Recorder. Towards the performance whereof there was delivered to Mr Mayor £45.10s of the common treasure of this town'.

[King's Lynn Hall Book 5, f.156v].

1579: Proposed progress in Essex.

From Greenwich to:
Havering [July 16, Thursday; only date given]
Mr Morice, Ongar [James Morice: Chipping Ongar]
Lord Rich [Little Leighs]
Gosfield, Lady Maltravers
Colchester, Sir Thomas Lucas
Layr Marney, Mr Tuke
Maldon, Mrs Harris
Moulsham, Sir Thomas Mildmay
Lady Petre, Ingatestone
Havering; Greenwich.

This progress did not take place, but in September 1579 the Queen visited Havering, Ingatestone and Moulsham.

Itinerary: Nichols, Progresses (1823), ii.285-287. Reprinted in Nichols, Progresses (2014), iii.23-24, both assuming that this progress went ahead as planned.

Nichols (1823) not only assumed that the whole progress took place as planned, but confused it with a second 1579 itinerary (see below). This has misled a number of historians of Essex.

1579: Proposed progress in Essex and Suffolk.

Aug 5, [Wed] from Greenwich to Havering
Aug 10, [Mon] Woodcroft Hall, Wistan Browne [Rookwood Hall, Abbess Roding]
Aug 12, [Wed] Leez, Lord Rich [Little Leighs]
Aug 15, [Sat] Gosfield, Lady Maltravers
Aug 20, [Thur] Smallbridge, Mr Waldegrave [Bures, Suffolk]
Aug 22, [Sat] Ipswich [Suffolk]
Aug 26, [Wed] Harwich [Essex]
Aug 29, [Sat] Lord Darcy [St Osyth]
Sept 1, [Tues] Colchester
Sept 3, [Thur] Layer Marney, Mrs Tuke
Sept 5, [Sat] Maldon, Mrs Harris
Sept 7, [Mon] Moulsham, Sir Thomas Mildmay
Sept 11, [Fri] Lady Petre, Ingatestone
Sept 14, [Mon] Havering

Itinerary: Morant, History of Essex, i.51.
Morant, followed by Nichols, Progresses (1823), ii.285, assumed that the whole progress took place as planned.

The Queen eventually began a progress in Essex on Sept 9, after the Duke of Alençon had left for France. Of the places listed only Havering, Ingatestone and Moulsham were visited (although not on the dates originally planned).

Colchester preparations, 1579.

1579, July 24, James Morice to the Bailiffs of Colchester:
'Mr Bailiffs. I heartily thank you for your fish. And as concerning her Majesty's coming to Colchester and my attendance there, the one is not yet certainly known, for aught I can learn, the other (God willing) shall not then be wanting. I am but an ill orator, nevertheless my good will shall be ready to pleasure your town in what I may. If you send to me at the next Assizes I think we shall more certainly determine of our doings for her Majesty's receipt into Colchester. You shall have my company before her Majesty's coming to you, when you shall think good'.

'And if her Majesty take my house in this her progress, as yet I doubt (in respect that some of my children have been of late visited with the measles), I will then with thanks receive your gentle offer for fish'.

'And so with my hearty commendations to you both and to all Mr Aldermen, I commit you to the Almighty...Your loving friend'.

[Morice (1539-1597), of Chipping Ongar, lawyer, Town Clerk of Colchester. The Queen visited Colchester only in 1561. Essex RO. D/Y 2/3.

Ipswich preparations, 1579.

Chamberlains' Accounts, 29 Sept 1578-29 Sept 1579:
'Paid Mr Lingfield for the charges of the Queen's men which came to enquire for the country being clear of disease'.

The Queen visited Ipswich only in 1561.

1585: Proposed progress to York.

Feb 12: Queen is rumoured to be going to York to meet King James. (Mendoza).

1585: Proposed progress to York.

[1585] Feb 28, Earl of Leicester, Sir Francis Knollys, and Sir James Croft:

'To all and singular her Majesty's Justices of Peace, Mayors, Sheriffs, Bailiffs, Constables, and all other her Highness's officers to whom it shall appertain. Whereas her Majesty intending this next summer to make her progress unto York, and for that such necessary provisions as are needful against her Highness's coming into those parts cannot be carried from the City of London, but to be provided in the country in such towns and places as are most convenient for the same'.

'We have therefore appointed the bearer hereof, Roderick Powell, her Majesty's Purveyor of Ale and Beer, together with her Highness's commission as well to view the state of the countries. Whereby it may be known how her Majesty may best be served, as also to appoint brew-houses and make stay of all kinds of provisions and other necessaries as he shall think meet for brewing, viz. malt, hops, hoops, clapboard, empty casks, etc. And if at this present he shall not find all such things as shall be needful for that service, that then you do cause all such necessary provisions as hereafter shall come, to be stayed until her Highness's coming thither, or that you hear further from us again to the contrary. Whereof we pray you not to fail, requiring you and every of you to aid and assist this bearer in the execution of the said service'.

[This letter was received at Leicester, Northampton, Nottingham, and York].

March 10: It was copied into the Leicester Hall Papers, together with the following Precept brought by the Purveyor 'written by her Majesty's Purveyor of her Buttery delivered unto to me with charge to be sent unto you'.

'Instructions and articles to be delivered up to the Mayors and others of her Majesty's officers of the towns of Northampton, Leicester, and Nottingham.

- (1) First that you do call before you and her Majesty's Purveyor all the brewers in your town to take their names and to know how much every one of them can brew.
- (2) To know the price of a tun of their best beer and ale, after four hogsheads or six barrels to a tun or after the measures used in your town.
- (3) The price of a tun of their second beer and ale.
- (4) That you will give charge unto your brewers to make good provision of good malts and hops, and of all other things necessary to be had and employed in this behalf.
- (5) That you do call before you all such as sell any wine within your town, and all your coopers, to know what provision of empty cask may be made within your town, or within 20 miles distance of the same, or where any clapboard or hoops may be had and provided for her Majesty.
- (6) That you do certify unto us the prices of a quarter of your best straw dried malt, the best wheat and the best oats sold in your market, and where the best provision of it is to be made.
- (7) The price of the second malt, wheat and oats sold in your market, and where it may be provided.
- (8) The price of a load of wood, and of a load of brushwood or bavin [firewood] and where provision of it may be made.
- (9) That you do send the Purveyor's Precepts unto all the market towns next adjoining unto you, to be delivered unto the Mayors, Bailiffs and other head officers of the same town, to make search and stay all empty cask that is to be found within their Liberties.
- (10) That you do certify unto us all and singular the premises under your hands and seals; and the state of the health of your town and other places adjoining unto the same, where her Majesty's train is to be lodged'.

[1585] [March 10]: Leicester Hall Papers.

'The names of the brewers in Leicester, and what they can serve weekly'.

Prices per quarter: best malt, 12s; second, 10s; best wheat, 20s; second, 16s; oats, 8s. Brushwood, 3s4d a load. Hops, the best, 35s.

Brewers will serve beer and ale for 36s the tun.

'The town of Leicester at this present (God be thanked) is healthful and free from all diseases. Saving only the measles and ague'.

From Leicester to Loughborough 8 miles.

From Loughborough to Nottingham other 8 miles.

From Killingworth [Kenilworth] to Misterton 12 miles.

From Coventry to Misterton 10.

May 7, court, from Gregory Lovell and James Woodford: 'After our hearty commendations. The Queen's Highness having determined this summer to make her progress northwards: Purveyors were sent down to make stay of cask and other provisions and necessaries as was thought needful for brewing against her Highness coming into these parts. And now her Majesty being altered of her determination, we thought it meet to give you knowledge thereof, requiring you hereby to release all such cask and other provisions as was stayed for her Majesty within the town of Leicester. And this shall be your discharge for the same'. 'Your loving friends, Gregory Lovell, Cofferer. James Woodford'.

[Letters of February 28 and May 7, and instructions, and brewers' names, in Mary Bateson, ed. Records of Leicester, iii.213-215].

Northampton preparations, 1585.

Assembly Book, 1585: Ordered that 'John Hensman being Mayor of the Town of Northampton have towards his charges at the Queen's Majesty's progresses through the town to Holmbie [Holdenby] the allowance sum of £20'.

[C.A.Markham and J.C.Cox, Records of the Borough of Northampton, 2 vols. (Northampton, 1898) i.469]. Holdenby House was built during the 1570s by Sir Christopher Hatton, who hoped to entertain the Queen there, but never did.

York preparations, 1585.

[1585] Feb 28, Earl of Leicester and Sir Francis Knollys: 'To our loving friends the Lord Mayor of the City of York', and his brethren Aldermen:

'The Queen's Majesty intending this next summer to make her progress unto York, and by reason of the far distance of the same from the City of London, that provisions cannot be carried without great trouble to the country and hindrance to her Majesty's service; and forasmuch as we are given to understand that there cometh yearly to the City of York good store of wines which will serve for the expenses of her Majesty's house. We have therefore for the ease of her Highness's subjects to commission John Domelow to repair unto the said City and by virtue thereof to make stay and mark all such wines as he shall find meet for the expenses of her Majesty's house against her Highness coming thither. And if there be not already some such wines as are meet for her Majesty, that you do cause such wines as before that time shall come to be stayed and kept in your store-house until her Highness's coming, or that you hear further from us again to the contrary. Requiring you, and every of you, to aid and assist her Majesty's Purveyor in the execution of the said service, whereof we pray you not to fail'. [Roderick Powell, Purveyor of Ale and Beer, was sent to York with the same letter of February 28 as he took to Leicester town].

March 15: A note was made of 'The names of brewers, and what they can serve weekly towards the Queen's Majesty's provision'. Five brewers would serve either 8 or 10 tuns beer weekly, three brewers 10 tuns either ale or beer; beer for 30s the tun, and ale for 36s. [York Civic Records, viii. 95-97].

And that all other meet things and rewards shall be paid and disbursed by the discretion of Mr Mayor [William Hodson] not exceeding the sum of 20 or 40s above that which hath been accustomed. And likewise the sum of 53s4d shall be given unto the three Sergeants and Bedell towards the provision of their apparel against her Majesty's coming to the City'...

'The Chamberlains of the City shall give and pay unto Nicholas Marks the sum of 10s for and toward his labour and charges in his travel to London in providing of a gilt cup to be presented to her Majesty, and other business of the City'. Sept 7: 'It is agreed that the whole sum of £20 shall be taken out of the Coffers and converted into gold and presented and given to her Majesty in the cup thereto provided'.

Winchester Coffer Accounts, 1589-1627: 1591, Aug 30: 'The same day and year was taken out of the Coffers by the assent of Mr Mayor and the more part of his brethren £12.6s8d to pay for a cup of silver and gilt which was bought to present to her Majesty if she had come to the City'. [Hampshire Record Office].

During the Queen's progress in Hampshire she had planned to visit Winchester, was still expected there on September 7, but abruptly changed her route.

1594: Proposed progress to Hertfordshire.

'1594: her Majesty's gastes'.

May 28, Tues: from Greenwich to Lambeth
May 29, Wed: Wimbledon [Surrey]
June 1, Sat: Osterley [Middx]
June 4, Tues: Hendon [Middx]
June 7, Fri: Barnet [Friern Barnet, Middx]
June 8, Sat: Theobalds [Herts; Lord Burghley]
June 11, Tues: Luxborough [Chigwell, Essex]
June 12, Wed: Havering [Essex]
June 17, Mon: Claybury, Mr Warren [Richard Warren; Ilford]
June 19, Wed: Tottenham or Hackney [Middx]
June [22], Sat: Greenwich.

The progress started on May 29, and the Queen visited all the locations named from Lambeth to Theobalds, although not on the planned dates, then made a longer stay than planned at Theobalds.

Not known to have been visited in 1594: Claybury; Havering; Tottenham.

Itinerary: BL Lansdowne 819, f.24.

1596: Proposed progress in Kent.

In March 1596 plans were made for the Queen to go to the coast of Kent in April and May, inspecting foot-bands of trained men on the way there and horse-bands on the way back. The siege and surrender of Calais caused the Queen to remain near London; these reviews did not take place.

The order prescribed for a show of the bands before her Majesty.

At her Majesty's going towards Sandwich these foot-bands.

- April 14: Mr Thomas Walsingham's company to show themselves before her Majesty being 204 between Greenwich and Dartford.
April 16: Sir John Leveson's band being 305 between Dartford and Rochester.
April 17: Rochester band being 50 beyond the city.
April 19: Mr Sondes' band being 300 between Sittingbourne and Faversham.
April 21: The two bands of Faversham being 225 beyond the town;
Mr Kempe's band being 194 between Faversham and Canterbury.
April 26: The trained band of Canterbury being 192 beyond the city;
Mr Manwood's band being 30 between Canterbury and Sandwich.
[Apr 27]: The two bands of Sandwich being 400, the day that her Majesty is to go to the Downs.

At her Majesty's return from Sandwich towards Greenwich these horse-bands.

- April 28: Mr Palmer and Mr Crisps' bands of light horse being 84 between Sandwich and Canterbury.
April 30: Mr Cromer and Mr Rochafes' bands being 58 between Canterbury and Faversham, or May 3: between Faversham and Sittingbourne, or Sir John Roper's.
May 5: Mr Twysden's band being 45 between Sittingbourne and Rochester.
May 7: Mr Lennard's band being 43 between Crayford and Dartford.

The Queen's proposed route, deduced from the order in which the foot-bands or horse-bands were to come before her:

- April 14, Wed: Dartford
April 16, Fri: Rochester
April 17, Sat: Sittingbourne
April 19, Mon: Faversham
April 21, Wed: Canterbury
April 26, Mon: Sandwich
April 27, Tues: visit to the Downs, from Sandwich
April 28, Wed: Canterbury
April 30, Fri: Faversham
May 5, Wed: Rochester
May 7, Fri: Dartford, Greenwich

Mr Thomas Walsingham: of Chislehurst.

Sir John Leveson: of Halling.

Mr Sondes: Michael Sondes, of Throwley.

Mr Kempe: Thomas Kempe, of Olantigh, Wye.

Mr Manwood: Peter Manwood, of Hackington, near Canterbury.

Mr Palmer: Thomas Palmer, of Wingham.

Mr Crisp: of Birchington.

Mr Cromer: James Cromer, of Sittingbourne; Mr Rochafe.

Sir John Roper: of Well Hall, Eltham.

Mr Twysden: Roger Twysden, of East Peckham.

Mr Lennard: Sampson Lennard, of Chevening and West Wickham.

Order for 'Show': Sutherland Papers, 593/S/4/39/2; at Staffs CRO.

1599: Proposed progress to Hampshire, Surrey, Wiltshire.

Referred to in several letters. July 24: locations listed.
Only Wimbledon, Surrey, was visited.

1602: Proposed progress to Bath.

This progress, referred to in several letters, was abandoned, although the Queen had planned to go to visit Lord Hunsdon, the Lord Chamberlain, who was taking the waters at Bath, Somerset.

1602: Proposed progress to Wiltshire.

[1602] 'Jesse of her Majesty's progress'.

From Oatlands Palace, Surrey

Aug 31, Tues: [dinner], Chobham [Surrey]
Aug 31, Tues: to bed, Bagshot [Surrey]
Sept 1, Wed: dinner, 'Mr Dawbriges' [not located] or dinner at Mr Harrison's, Finchampstead [Berks]
Sept 1, Wed: to bed at Mr Backhouse's [Swallowfield, Berks] or at 'Dabscottes' [Thomas Dabridgecourt, Stratfield Saye, Hants?]
Sept 2, Thur: dinner, Mr Plowden, Burghfield [Berks]
Sept 2, Thur: to bed, Aldermaston [Berks]
Sept 4, Sat: dinner, Mr Fuller [Thatcham, Berks]
Sept 4, Sat: to bed, Mr Dolman [Shaw-cum-Donnington, Berks]

Mistaken Visits: chronological list.

These are primarily from the 'Court Calendar' compiled by E.K.Chambers, in The Elizabethan Stage (Oxford, 1923), iv.77-116; his main sources were the Treasurer of the Chamber's Accounts, which have payments for making ready houses for the Queen, but which include some houses not eventually visited.

This 'Calendar' was followed by Mary Hill Cole, The Portable Queen (Amherst, 1999) in a 'Chronology of Royal Visits and Progresses'. This was in turn followed by Nichols, Progresses (2014); this also repeated some mistaken visits from Nichols, Progresses (1823); these have been included here.

1559: Hanworth, Middlesex. First known visit during the reign: in 1577.
London: to visit Sir William Pickering; he met the Queen at court.

1560: Netley Castle, Hants. Visit was to Netley Abbey.

1561: Helmingham, Suffolk. Visit was to (Castle) Hedingham, Essex.
Layer Marney, Essex: George Tuke. A proposed visit.

1561/1562: Inner Temple Revels, with a play. Play was at Whitehall: 18 Jan 1562.
There is no evidence that the Queen visited any of the Inns of Court. When the law students put on any entertainment for her they came to the royal court.

1562: St Paul's Cathedral for sermon by Dean Nowell, Jan 1.
The Queen visited St Paul's only for the Armada Thanksgiving in 1588.

1563: Visit to Northampton. This was in August 1564.
Visit to Toddington, Beds. This was in September 1564.

1564:

July 27: at Theobalds, Herts, dinner with the Lord Treasurer; Theobalds was not yet built; its owner, Sir William Cecil, became Lord Treasurer in 1572. Queen dined with Marquis of Winchester, Lord Treasurer, at his London house. Aldbury, Herts: Thomas Hyde. Queen visited William Hyde, of Sandon. Dallington, Northants: Sir Andrew Corbett. Visit was to his house in Bucks. Great Hampden; Princes Risborough; Amersham, Bucks. Visited in October 1592. Longstanton, Cambs, Aug 10: Bishop of Ely. He was visited at Fenstanton, Hunts. Stamford, Lincs: visited in 1566.

1565: Gray's Inn, March 6. The play was at Whitehall Palace.

1565: Visits to Coventry, Kenilworth, Stamford: all visited in 1566.

1566: Feb 19: Earl of Southampton's marriage. Queen was not present. Kings Cliffe, Northants. This was to Cliffe Park, where the Queen hunted. Shenley, Herts: Michael Pulteney. Visit was to his Misterton, Leics, house. Stamford, Lincs: to Sir William Cecil at Burghley House: visit cancelled, as Cecil's daughter had smallpox; Queen dined at Greyfriars (not Whitefriars). Warwick Castle. No visit; Queen went via Warwick. Wrest, Beds: Duchess of Suffolk. Visit was to her Lincolnshire house.

1567: Beddington, Surrey: Francis Carew. No visit in this year.
Loseley, Guildford: William More. A proposed visit.

1568: At 'Howard Place': alternative name for the Charterhouse, Middx.
Belvoir Castle, Leics. No visit (note, 10 Dec 1568).

1569: Chertsey, Surrey. No visit.
Hurstbourne, Hants: Sir Robert Oxenbridge. No visit (note, 16 Sept 1569).
Southampton Tower: a mis-reading of Southampton 'town'.

1570:

Dame Ellensbury, Houghton Conquest, Beds. A park, not a woman.
Ham House, Surrey. Not yet built. Madame de Châtillon was at Sheen.
Privy Council Register: Aug 17: 'At Penleys'; index: 'Penley in Wilts'.
Aug 20: 'At Tuddington': index: 'Toddington, in Gloucestershire'.
Council was at Pendley, Tring, Herts, and at Toddington, Bedfordshire.

1570, 1571, 1578: Hunsdon House, Herts: Lord Hunsdon.
No visit after the Queen's Accession, but several proposed visits.

1571 December: London, for marriages. The marriages were at court.

1571, 1576, 1578: Mark Hall: in Latton, now in Harlow, Essex.
Several other Mark or Mark's Halls have been mistakenly suggested.

1572: Beachampton, Bucks. A proposed visit.
Bishopsgate, Middlesex: Jasper Fisher. Visit deferred to March 1573.
Dunstable, Beds. At The Red Lion, owned by Edward Wyngate.

1573:

Brabourne, Kent: Sir Thomas Scott. Visit was at Smeeth, nearby.
Folkestone, Kent: Thomas Fisher. Nichols mis-read 'Mr Fisher's house in Lent' as 'Mr Fisher's house in Kent', and Chambers surmised a visit to Thomas Fisher.
Gorhambury, St Albans, Herts. No visit in this year.
Islehamstead Latimer, Bucks: Miles Sandys. Visited only in 1576.
Wye, Kent, at Olantigh: Sir Thomas Kempe. A proposed visit.

1574:

May: Croydon Palace. Preparations were made for a visit.
Alresford, Hants. The Queen went via Alresford.
Berkeley Herne, Gloucs. Visit was to Berkeley Castle.
Caversham, Oxon: Sir Francis Knollys. Visit was to his Rotherfield Greys house.
Churcham, Gloucs. Francis Walsingham stayed there, Aug 10-11, not the Queen.
Wadley, Faringdon, Berks: Sir Edward Unton. Visit to his Langley, Oxon, house.
Wylve, Wilts: Lady Marvyn. Visit was to her Fonthill Gifford house.

1575:

Alrewas, Staffs: Walter Griffith. No visit; Queen went via Alrewas.
Beauesert, Staffs: Lord Paget. Visit was to his Burton house.
Chipping Campden, Gloucs. A proposed visit.
Chiswick and Osterley, Middlesex, in April. No visits in 1575.
Ellenhall, Staffs: Walter Harcourt. No visit. It was Michael Harcourt who was visited at Leckhampstead, Bucks.
Evesham, Worcs. No visit.
Reading, Berks. No visit in 1575.
Watton Woodhall, Herts: Sir John Butler. Visit to his Wheathampstead house.

1576:

Hedgerley, Bucks: Sir Robert Drury. At his Chalfont St Peter house.
Highgate and Hendon, Middx, and Barnet, Herts. No visits in 1576.
Upshire, Essex. Visit was at 'Cupper Shawe': Coopersale, Theydon Garnon.

1576-1597: visits to 'Loughborough', Essex: Luxborough, Chigwell.

1578:

Aveley, Essex, at Belhus: Edward Barrett. No visit.
Blickling, Norfolk: Edward Clere. Visit was to his Thetford house.
Childerley, Cambs: Sir John Cutts. Visit was to Horham Hall, Thaxted, Essex.
Hatfield Broad Oak, Essex: Sir Thomas Barrington. Visited only in 1576.
Onehouse, Suffolk: Sir William Drury. Visit was to his Hawstead house.
Osterley, Middx: Sir Thomas Gresham. Proposed visit, February.
Stowmarket, Suffolk. No visit.

1579:

For alleged visits to Colchester, Ipswich, Maldon, etc, see 'Proposed Progresses'. Several local historians followed Nichols, Progresses (1823), and supposed this progress in Essex and Suffolk to have taken place; also reprinted in Nichols, Progresses (2014).
Gravesend and Deptford. No visits in 1579.

1581: Tilt at Hampton Court, May 6-7. Tilt was at Whitehall, May 15-16.
Chelsea, Middx: Lord Howard of Effingham. No visit until 1593.

1582: Dover and Sandwich. No visits. Both were visited in 1573, but in 1582 the Queen went no further than Canterbury, with the Duke of Alençon.

1583: London: marriage. April 17. At Reigate, Surrey, Queen not present.
Petworth, Sussex: Earl of Northumberland. A proposed visit.

1584: Cobham, Surrey: Robert Gavell. Visit was to John Wolley, at Chobham.

1585: Oatlands, Surrey. No visit in 1585.
March-July: Tilt for M.de Champagney. This was during his visit in 1576.

1586: Lambeth: Feb 26, and in March. These visits were in 1585.

1587 Nov 20: visit to Sir Francis Walsingham at Barn Elms, Surrey.
The visit was to Walsingham House, London.

1588:

Aveley, Essex, at Belhus. No visit.
Horndon, Essex, at Ardern Hall: Thomas Rich. No visit.
Visit, from Tilbury Camp, was to Edward Rich, Saffron Garden, Horndon.

1590 November: Sydenham Park, Kent. Queen visited Sydenham in August.

1591 or 1592: Bath, Somerset. Visited only in 1574.

1591:

Croydon, Surrey, July 1. No visit (letter, end April 1590).
Katherine Hall, Surrey. St Catherine's Hill, near Guildford.
Warnford, Hants: William Neale. A proposed visit.

Aldersgate Street, London: Countess of Pembroke. No visit.

Aug 4: with William Lambarde at the Tower; this was at Greenwich Palace.

York House: Sir Thomas Egerton and new wife Alice, Countess of Derby; visit was at Harefield, Middlesex, 1602.

POSTSCRIPT: MIDDLESEX VISITS.

Kentish Town and St Pancras, north-west London (formerly in Middlesex).

Members of the Camden History Society, London, brought to the author's attention in autumn 2017 a partial transcript of the churchwardens' accounts of Old St Pancras Church. The original account-book appears to be lost. As the precise dates of the Queen's visits are not known, the payments are given here in their entirety. Kentish Town, although referred to as 'the town', was a hamlet in the parish of St Pancras; it had the largest population in the parish.

1568: 'Paid for drink for the poor at 2 times when the Queen came through the town, 13d'

1569: 'Paid for drink when the Queen came through the town, 6d'.

'1572, 1573': 'Paid at the eating of the buck which the Queen gave to the parish, 42s'.

1576: 'Paid for bread and drink when the Queen's Grace dined at Kentish Town, [Kentissiton], 20s'.

There is no reference in the royal accounts to Kentish Town or St Pancras. Any visits were likely to have been when the Queen was staying at Whitehall Palace or St James's Palace.

In 1568 possible dates are March 15 and April 3, when the Queen was at Whitehall and the Spanish Ambassador reported that he went out 'in the country' with her.

The 1572/1573 payment for 'eating of the buck which the Queen gave' suggests that she had recently been hunting in the neighbourhood. (Compare payments by Gloucester Council for eating deer which the Queen sent: 11 Sept 1574).

In July 1576 the Queen was at Whitehall for a week in late July, when she was enjoying much hunting. A Gentleman Usher made ready 'supper houses' for her to use whilst she was hunting at Hyde Park and Marylebone Park. The east side of Marylebone Park was in St Pancras parish. As there is not known to have been any house at Kentish Town suitable for a royal visit, and there were no prominent residents at this time, one of these 'supper houses' may have been where the Queen 'dined', as the churchwardens described the event.

The author gratefully acknowledges the assistance of David Hayes and Michael Ogden, of Camden History Society, and of Tudor Allen, Archivist at Camden Local Studies and Archives Centre.
